

JOU 280: Introduction to Magazine Writing

Assignment: Story Draft

Point Total: 50

Overview: Students will have a completed version of their story, emailed to me as one document (with appropriate TKs or section descriptions for what is coming; please do not rely upon one interview for a section).

Components: This assignment will be a preview of the final story packet. It's important that writers keep their notes, research and writing together throughout the process. Therefore, you will turn everything in to me at this time in final packet form.

1. Story Idea: This top page will be the one-page version of the story idea
2. Draft: The draft will be finished; however, if there is a section not finished, a brief subhead and description of what part of the story is coming will suffice. The draft will be annotated.
3. Research: Students have the research annotated as end notes

Grading: Students who complete the minimum requirements for the paper will receive a "C", which is average work. To receive higher marks:

- A completed draft
- Strong voice, writing and use of concepts in class
- All materials gathered and sorted in a professional manner
